

Local council complaints: If something is not right, who do I complain to?

IF YOU HAVE A COMPLAINT ABOUT A LOCAL COUNCIL

STEP ONE

If you have a complaint about a council service, try to resolve it with the council first. The council will have a complaints process you can use to resolve issues. You can check details about your local council at www.knowyourcouncil.vic.gov.au

STEP TWO

If your complaint doesn't involve a service issue or you haven't been able to resolve it with council, you can contact one of the following integrity agencies.

ombudsman VICTORIAN

What can't we deal with?

The Inspectorate does not investigate complaints relating to councils' decisions or democratic processes, unless there is a breach of the Act. It does not look at services issues such as bins not being collected, rate charges being too high or parking infringements.

The Ombudsman will generally not become involved in a complaint when:

- you have not yet attempted to resolve it with the organisation directly
- the matter may be decided by a court or tribunal
- the complaint is more than 12 months old.

IBAC does not handle complaints about:

- issues from other States or Territories or Federal matters
- matters in the private sector, unless it relates to a Victorian public sector employee
- rudeness or poor customer service.
